WELCOME!

While sketch nights are in limbo, and elbowing with our community artists at gallery openings is unthinkable, I imagine many of you are spending some of your time immersed in your own art. Please consider sharing what you've been doing and how you've been adjusting during this unprecedented time in history. It would be great to make the May newsletter about the members' art.

In the meantime, here is some info on virtual art happenings locally and around the world including virtual tours and online exhibits. Please let me know if you have things to add going forward.

In addition to visual arts, there are many other artistic online events. For example, the National Theatre in London, England is streaming a different play every Thursday on YouTube. You can also listen to symphonies, bands, musicians perform around the world, almost daily.

May this newsletter find you safe and healthy.

Marilyn Stewart Stothers RETROSPECTIVE:

"I have a passion for designing and working with fabric. This leads to continuing experimentation and development of new ways to manipulate fabric for surface design. Working with fabrics requires not only a resolution of the visual aspect, a playing with shape and colour, but also freely "painting" with fabric pieces in constructing the finished work."
